Pahokee Public Zoning Meeting January 25

PAHOKEE—A public hearing Tuesday, Jan. 25, will give residents of Pahokee a chance to express their views on the new zoning ordinance approved by the zoning commission at a four-hour session here this week.

Frederick H. Baig, Jr., executive secretary of the Florida Planning and Zoning Association, and Zoning Commissioners Bob Apelgren, chairman; Otto Bleech, Wiley Tillis, Mike Sanders, and Joe Kahn met Wednesday afternoon to give the new ordinance a final going-over.

SOIL LOSS IS DESCRIBED

PAHOKEE—Soil loss in the Everglades amounts to approximately 13,200 gundola cars full every day, according to John C. Stephens, project supervisor at the Everglades Experiment Station in Belle Glade.

Stephens, working in the Agricultural Research Service of the USDA, addressed Pahokee Rotarians at their weekly meeting and pointed out several causes for soil subsidence in the Everglades. Drainage, fire, wind, and slow oxidation were listed, with the first and last named being the most severe causes of soil loss, Stephens indicated.

Faced with the problem of losing about one and one-quarter inches of soil a year, Everglades farmers and producers are anxious to know what they can do to hold on to their land.

Water Table
Stephens pointed out that water table height and subsidence are related and that prevention of subsidence by high water table levels means that production is reduced. He indicated that a happy medium between productive use of the soil and conservation had to be first consideration of the practical farmer. Suggesting that farmers maintain high water tables when they are not cultivating a crop, that they flood fallow, and that they experiment with under water crop production, Stephens indicated that the flood control program now being developed can help to conserve the soil even if it is not a cure for the subsidence problem.

Flood Control
Discussing the contribution of Central and Southern Florida Flood Control, Stephens pointed out that the program will help the farmer maintain proper water table levels, will assist in putting lands in cultivation and are not a hindrance to production, and will retard subsidence by maintaining water levels which will help control fires and under water microclimate.

Stephens was optimistic in his conclusions. He felt that basic research in control of the bacteria caused oxidation, and other microbiological studies will find a solution for the subsidence problem or will go far in retarding the present day losses.

Lynn Hunter introduced Stephens and Thadde Whidden, Rotary president, presided at the meeting.

Vote Tuesday — MAYOR URGES PAHOKEE VOTE

PAHOKEE—An urgent plea to all eligible voters to walk, water, or hitchhike to the polls Tuesday was issued this week by Mayor Lewis Friend.

The mayor said that the fact that this is an off-year election makes it doubly important that residents cast their ballots to express their wishes to representation in Congress.

"In this crucial year of national events, many of which will affect Floridians directly, it is vital that each of us exercise our right to vote for our national representative. I urge that Pahokee residents who wish to keep their traditional freedom as Americans get out Tuesday and vote," Mayor Friend said.

Miss Bette Pickett will be in charge of Pahokee's get-out-the-vote campaign, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club.

With the exception of a few minor changes, the ordinance as prepared by the FPZA expert after extensive sessions with Pahokee officials was accepted to present to the public and then to City Council for final action. The Jan. 25 meeting has been set for 7:30 p.m. at City Hall.

The public is being invited to meet with the zoning group to discuss the various sections of the new ordinance, and to offer opinions or objections.

The public meeting preliminary to a Council session on the new ordinance climaxes long and arduous zoning work by city officials, the zoning commission, and Baur.

It was in September that Baur first arrived from the Auburndale headquarters of FPZA to meet with Council and make a preliminary survey of the city.

Replaces Patchwork
The new ordinance has been designed to replace the old ordinance which through the years has grown a patchwork of amendments like the Florida state constitution. The new law encompasses tightening up of earlier rulings as well as including additional set of much-needed requirements for building.

Baur will return to Pahokee to appear with zoning commission officials to answer the public's questions on the proposed new ordinance.

Vote Tuesday — All-Time Bldg. Record, Pahokee

PAHOKEE — An all-time dollar total in building permits issued was reported here this week as Building Inspector Frank Thompson tallied up $490,220 in permits issued in 1954.

The previous record year was in 1949, when $349,490 was the total, or $140,730 less than the banner year just ended, Thompson said. The tallied up permits' records show that 1952 marked the beginning of the current upswing. The 1953 total was $398,000.

Thompson said non-residential buildings accounted for far more of the total than residential buildings. Three new churches and several new business buildings were the leader with material of $75,000 addition; First Baptist second with $35,000; Jones Hardware, $23,000, and a new Negro church, $12,000.

Vote Tuesday — BREAKWATER IS UP IN COUNCIL

PAHOKEE — Fees and engineering proposals for construction of the Pahokee breakwater will be given further consideration by City Council at its meeting next Monday, members decided this week.

A special session with Herbert C. Gee of Gee & Jensen Inc., engineers, Monday night gave council members food for thought. Gee proposed that 50 percent of the cost of construction, his firm would render engineering services including plans and specifications, materials estimates, bid analysis, consultation, and final inspection.

At the conclusion of the session with Gee, Council agreed with City Building Inspector Frank Thompson that Steve Tsalkis could not get a building permit for a house until he submitted a foundation plan showing the number of feet between pilings, the size of the beam, and similar details. Thompson later reported that Tsalkis was issued a permit for a house in Vetteville after submitting plans Wednesday.

PAUL ROGERS ON GLADES TOUR TUESDAY

Persistence Is Urged By Rogers

"Persistent citizenship" was a formula outlined this week by Democratic Candidate Paul Rogers, candidate to succeed his late father as U. S. Representative from Sixth Florida Congressional District next Tuesday.

On an all-GLADES tour Tuesday, Rogers addressed the Pahokee Lions Club on the need for persistent citizenship, which he described as the courage and fortitude to stand up one's beliefs. "Every problem that has ever been solved has only come about by persistent efforts," Rogers said.

He listed such major items as Glades flood control and better roads (on the latter, "And there is so far to go yet") as examples of what persistent citizenship can accomplish.

"People in America seem to get tired of community affairs—of voting, of various projects we stop participating in," he said. "We let the leaders do it." Rogers said in his plea for an active, participating citizenry. "Everything that happens in Washington affects us here in the Glades."

In Pahokee, Belle Glade, South Bay, Canal Point, and the other communities," he said.

Vote Tuesday — Parking Problem Is C-C Project

PAHOKEE—Parking congestion in downtown Pahokee was a major point of consideration for the Chamber of Commerce board of directors at their regular monthly meeting Monday.

Lack of properly painted and marked traffic and parking spaces came in for considerable discussion. Director F. S. Parrish, in his capacity as president of Pahokee City Council, said 30-minute parking signs would be put up, at about three to a block. Painting of parking areas on Bacon Point Rd. was begun this week.

Receipt of 100 copies of "Literary Florida" magazine, with an article and pictures on Pahokee and Canal Point, was announced. Copies were distributed to board members by Secretary Bertha Orr.

With President M. P. Stanley presiding, the directors approved the recommendation of Director Leonard Dobrow, then Rep. B. Elliott be written a letter of appreciation for his work in getting the city a loan of $200,000 from the Internal Improvement Fund to install a breakwater in Lake Okechobee.

Guy Stovall, pioneer Pahokian, now of Ft. Pierce, was also voted to receive a letter for assistance on the breakwater.

Boyd Vorhees, Canal Point, was welcomed as a new member of the board.

Tag Sales

Auto license tags went on sale in Belle Glade and Pahokee this week. Tags are available in Belle Glade Monday through Wednesday from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3:30 p.m. in the building formerly occupied by the Chamber of Commerce on Ave. A. B. Elliott's building in Pahokee is again the location for the tag office open Thursdays and Fridays with the same hours as above.

Vote Tuesday — VOTERS TO BE ROUSTED OUT

BELLE GLADE—Voters will not forget election day if the Jay Cees, the Chamber of Commerce and BPW can get them to the polls, it according to Mrs. Edwinna Young, Chamber secretary.

The Jay Cees are manning a sound truck which will circulate the Glades on Tuesday to remind voters to go to the polls. Jay Cees-ettes will be at the polls to hand out "I Voted, Have You?" tags and to find out who doesn't vote so that efforts can be made to get non-voters to the polls.

The BPW is telephoning all voters, urging them to go to the polls, and the theatres are running "vote" trailers. The Chamber of Commerce is coordinating the various get-out-the-vote activities.

NEW CEMETERY LAND ACTION

Palm Beach County received 274 burial plots for a Potter's Field from the Port Mayaca Cemetery Commission Monday night.

The board of trustees of the commission, consisting of South Bay Mayor S. J. Fisher, Belle Glade Commissioner Walter Ashley and Pahokee Councilman Louis Mims agreed to the transfer of lots in exchange for labor, equipment and material for cemetery maintenance.

The plots are located in blocks 11 and 12, part of the newly-acquired cemetery land, according to Commission Secretary Dorothy Graham. In other action the commission transmitted to the county commission the plat of the cemetery lands and a description of the property as well as a copy of the resolution conveying the burial plots.

Vote Tuesday — So. Bay Starts New Year Right

SOUTH BAY — The new year started right for the City of South Bay when I. P. Roberts of Construction Co. started a residential building program hard on the heels of the 1954 building permit total of $83,261.

Mrs. Roy Lovell, city clerk, said that of the 1954 total, the two major items were $30,000 for the new Baptist church and $22,000 for South Bay Truck Service's facilities.

A $10,500 permit was issued to Roberts for construction of a two-bedroom house in the Hardy and Roadman subdivision. He plans to apply for a permit for a three-bedroom house next week, and as land is available.

"I will go as far as I can to develop the town," Roberts said. Plans for the new construction have met all inspections, including FHA, VA, and local, Roberts said. He plans to build CBS houses with wood interior finish.

Belle Glade Facts-Life Told In New U.F. Book

BELLE GLADE—An "economic data book" containing every known fact on Belle Glade, from local wage rates to the chemical content of Lake Okechobee treated water, was being mailed out this week by the Chamber of Commerce.

The book, published by the University of Florida's bureau of economic and business research at a cost to Belle Glade of some $800, concisely gives any industry a good picture of the Glades city.

As a possible answer to progressives' prayers for more industry, the book appears to top any previous step to attract it, short of a Belle Glade travelling salesman.

Vote Tuesday — Fla. Angus Assn. Sale Here 15th

There'll be 32 rugged, breeding Angus bulls available for buyers when the Florida Aberdeen-Angus Ass'n. holds its annual sale Saturday, Jan. 15 at the Glades Livestock Market, according to Sale Manager Harry Friedlander of Lake Wales.

"We're anxious that Florida cattlemen interested in Angus bulls get the right kind of animal," Friedlander said. "The sale is under the sponsorship of the Florida association, and we're sure of getting the quality they want."

The sale will get underway at 1 p.m. with Bob Cooper of Construction Co. Roberts said. Signors including the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station of Gainesville, Groveland Farms of Lake Wales, Hovely Angus Ranch of Lutz, and Turkey Ford Ranch of Lutz.

Friedlander points out that Angus bulls have been in strong demand in Florida because they have made good in producing feeder calves, have been carrying dehorners, have less calving, pink eye and under troubles, produce uniform color offspring, and are easily handled.

Vote Tuesday — ROBERTS' NAMED ON TOP GROUP

Appointment of Rep. - Elect Emmett Roberts, of Belle Glade, to the powerful Appropriations committee of the Florida House of Representatives was announced this week.

A check of the records reveals few freshmen legislators ever have been appointed to this committee. According to the state constitution all bills carrying an appropriation must be referred both to the appropriations committee and to the committee concerned with the subject of the bill.

The Legislature meets April 5 and that time committee appointments made in advance of the session are confirmed. The appropriations committee is composed of the first of the "Big Five" committees, the other two are Finance and Rules committees, and Francis Harris.

Among the more startling facts presented in the condensed and simplified statistical history are that in the 1950-53 period, Belle Glade has shown an increase of 58.1% in postal revenue; 42.4% in number of telephone calls; 36.4% in number of water meters; 16.9% in bank deposits and 16.5% in electric meters.

Residential building permits almost doubled in number and value between 1951 and 1953, the data book shows.

A 20-year population growth chart based on the U. S. census figures shows that Belle Glade increased 6.80% as against 122% for Palm Beach County and 89% for all Florida.

All the Answers
Highway distances from Belle Glade to major points in the U. S., a breakdown of how the labor force is employed, wage rates by occupation, and the local transportation picture as pertains to highways, railroads, trucks and bus lines, air, and water, all are shown. Principal plants are listed, as are utility and water costs and tax millage figures.

The data book is being mailed today to a list of southward-looking manufacturers furnished by the State Advertising Commission, to a selected list of potentially interested industries, and in answer to more than 100 inquiries about Belle Glade facilities which have been stockpiled awaiting arrival of the 2,000 data books.

Mrs. Edwinna Young, C. Sec. secretary, who first discovered at a state industry committee meeting that Belle Glade or any other Florida city could obtain the University's services to compile a data book, said that the book will be sent to the Chamber would also receive copies of the book.

Vote Tuesday — FFA Chapters To Meet On Union

PAHOKEE—Feb. 2 was the date set this week for a meeting here of all FFA chapters of the lake region to discuss the possibilities of forming a confederation.

The confederation would meet monthly, with officers of each chapter exchanging ideas and plans.

At Tuesday night's meeting of the Pahokee FFA chapter, plans also were made for the annual banquet, Mar. 11, including the attendance of both parents. The banquet will kick off the annual sweetheart contest, which will be climaxed by the naming of the sweetest girl at a dance the night of April 1.

Vote Tuesday — ALL GLADES CAP MEN HELP SEARCH

All members of the Glades Civil Air Patrol were in the group of local pilots who logged in to help the Air Force search for the airman recently lost in Lake Okechobee, the CAP's Sam Bell reported this week.

An official total of 25 hours of flying time was put in during the 10-day search for the body, but many more hours not logged by the Air Force were also spent, Bell said.

Old And Still Good

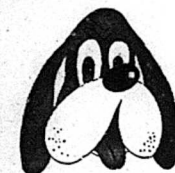

Periodically and methodically, the nation's newspapers put in a plea they are happy to make to their readers—Get Out and Vote.

"Vote" editorials have been written so many times and expressed so many ways that citizens are often inclined to overlook them entirely.

We wouldn't want that to happen in the Glades.

So we will just say:

Go to the polls next Tuesday and stand on your rights as American citizens—don't stomp all over those rights by failing to vote.

BY SCHATZI

It's such a help to have help with column material.

Boss No. 2 came back from the holidays in Ohio last weekend, and reported that there is a worse place for traffic accidents than the Glades.

As she assisted me with making the bed I was to lie in this week, she reported that in Akron, O., the week from Christmas through New Year's saw traffic casualties strewn all over the city.

This was despite the most up-to-date radar speed-checking equipment, a full complement of traffic officers, and warnings posted all over the city.

I'm beginning to think that it would be obvious that there's just one solution to the traffic toll problem—take any 50 per cent of the population driving cars and exchange their vehicles for horse and buggies.

The government could subsidize this, of course.

A suitable period—say six months—could elapse after this exchange, and by that time the whole problem would be solved. The horses would be eliminated from the highways as a result of cars running into them, and the other 50% of the cars would have been wrecked and off the highways from running into the horses.

Then the U. S. could go back to foot travel, and in turn would walk off the surplus fat that doctors say is responsible for much of the country's health troubles.

Presumably, in this program, hereinafter referred to as Schatzi's Special Cure for Highway Problems, there would be an ultimate good for the taxpayer.

If everybody was back to walking, there wouldn't be any need for roads, and the resultant reduction in taxes would help auto-less people accumulate the money to travel henceforth by air and train.

Papa, Mama, and the kids could go aloft (it would be, matter of fact, like flying through space in a saloon, now that the airlines are installing bar service on the larger craft, or they could rattle over the rails through the delights of getting into nightclothes in the doorway after the roomette bed is made up.

But then—if all the U.S. started to travel by air and rail, the lobbies for those two great facilities would requisition the government for subsidized airports and terminals, probably.

And the taxes for such purposes would be put on old Charley Citizen.

Then the taxpayers would get mad and say here, no more of this, and would argue to be given back the use of their automobiles.

And the highway traffic problem would be with us again.

It is just possible that my plan wouldn't work after all.

But it sure was fun thinking about it.

Florida. In addition to the overall problem of helping to decide what is good for our country, their job will be to protect and promote the interests of their own state. These ten men are often referred to as the "Florida Delegation." Most of the time they get together and work as a unit. In the past they have been noted in Washington as being one of the closest "families" on Capitol Hill.

As we have done at the beginning of each session, we are listing the members—for easy reference. As they say at a football game, "You can't follow the players without a program."

The Senators are listed according to the district they represent.

SENATOR SPESSARD HOLLAND of Bartow—Florida's senior Senator. First elected on Nov. 5, 1946. He is a former judge and governor. Has served in all three branches of our government.

SENATOR GEORGE SMATHERS of Miami—Junior Senator. Now serving his first term, with two more years to go. State-wide rumor is that he doesn't plan to run for a second term.

CONGRESSMAN BILL CRAMER of St. Petersburg, first district—Florida's lone Republican in Congress. Defeated Courtney Campbell in a close race. Probably will have to face him again next election.

CONGRESSMAN CHARLIE BENNETT of Jacksonville, second district—serving his fourth term. Plans to run for the Senate to fill Smathers' shoes if the junior senator decides not to run.

CONGRESSMAN BOB SIKES of Crestview, third district—the dean of the Florida Delegation—better known as the "he-coon." Listen for his name when prospective candidates for governor are mentioned.

CONGRESSMAN DANTE FASCELL of Miami, fourth district—another new-comer. He takes the spot left vacant when Bill Lanoff decided he had his term enough. Well-liked in his district—won easily.

CONGRESSMAN SYD HERLONG, Jr. of Leesburg, fifth district—now in his fourth term.

A lawyer and former judge. Known nation-wide as manager of the Congressional Democratic baseball team.

CONGRESSMAN PAUL ROGERS ??? of Ft. Lauderdale, sixth district—Not really elected yet, but now running to take the place left vacant by the death of his father. We think the race is a cinch for him.

CONGRESSMAN JIM HALEY of Sarasota, seventh district—former head of the famous Ringling Brothers circus. Now serving his second term after having both Democratic and Republican opposition.

CONGRESSMAN BILLY MATTHEWS of Gainesville, eighth district—also serving his second term. A former school teacher. Returned to Congress this time without opposition.

There they are, folks. Cut out this list for reference.

FIRST FLORIDA INAUGURAL

Florida's first governor was inaugurated June 23, 1845 in elaborate ceremony at the State House which marked the first time that "the flag of our independent sovereignty" flew from the flag pole at the capitol.

William D. Moseley, a native of North Carolina, marks by references to the Constitution and its provisions for recognition of states rights.

Although Florida's most recently inaugurated governor may have a shabby mansion at his disposal until a suitable residence is provided, the first Florida governors provided their own housing. Twenty governors or acting governors lived wherever they could buy or rent a house until Napoleon Broward had plans for the present mansion drawn in 1906. He was the first governor to "occupy" the building which cost the sum of $21,242.

Governor Moseley was a graduate of the University of North Carolina, a state Senator and an unsuccessful candidate for governor of that state. With the purchase of a plantation in Jefferson County, in 1835, Moseley decided to interest himself in Florida affairs. His business and political interests were diversified and after his term as governor expired in 1849 he remained on his plantation until 1851 when he moved to Palatka and died there in 1863.

According to a report by Thomas Hagan in the "Florida Handbook," Moseley in his inaugural address stressed the dangers of over-centralized government. He documented his re-

LOOKING INTO THE FACTS...

Dr. C. M. Thompson, University of Kentucky, said in a recent FEED-STUFFS article that, "In formulating the supplement to balance the nutritional deficiencies of low quality roughage, a number of factors are involved. The one in which we are specifically interested is the chemical composition of the roughage. It is questionable whether the value of protein in a roughage is indicative of the nutritional value of that roughage. The lignin content of forages may be a better indicator of nutritive value of a forage than protein. I am sure that the two values are better than either alone." Among factors Dr. Thompson mentioned as exerting an influence upon low quality roughage utilization in ruminants were, low protein content, and availability of cellulase. Addition of protein tends to increase digestion of roughage dry matter, he said, and added that addition of various protein supplements specifically increased pure cellulase digestion.
